President, Party Leaders Hold Discussion

FOREIGN POLICY IS TALKED OVER AT CONFERENCE

Moscow Meeting Is Subject Under Discussion At White House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—President Truman held a full-dress discussion today with the top leaders of both parties in foreign affairs on the vitally important Moscow peace conference.

The chief executive called in Secretary of State Marshall and Under Secretary of State Acheson and eight leaders of both parties in the senate and house for a lengthy over-all review of American foreign policy in relation to this government's stand in the making of the peace.

The President conferred with his top advisers for an hour.

Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., chairman of the senate foreign relations committee as well as president pro tem of the senate, acted as spokesman for the conferees after the meeting broke up.

Vandenberg said the hour-long conference dwelt upon one subject: the Moscow conference.

He said:

"On the eve of Secretary Marshall's departure for Moscow we had a general discussion of the European problem which is involved in the approaching meeting at Moscow."

Vandenberg said that as far as he was permitted to go concerning the meeting.

He answered one question, however, explaining that the discussion was "entirely on European affairs."

Finances Not Up

A question was raised as to whether the meeting concerned budget matters and finance in view of the fact that Rep. Taber (R) N. Y., was reported to have been invited to the conference but was not present.

Vandenberg said it had nothing to do with financial matters, but to ask Taber when he came in to see the President.

Taber will see Mr. Truman later in the day.

Those present at the conference in addition to Marshall, Acheson and Vandenberg were: Speaker Martin (R) Mass., the senate and house minority leaders, Sen. Barkley (D) Ky., and Rep. Rayburn (D) Tex., Sen. Connally (D) Tex., who was former chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, Sen. Bridges (R) N. H., Rep. Eaton (R) N. J., chairman of the house foreign affairs committee and Rep. Bloom (D) N. Y.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

by Walter Kiernan

Ike Eisenhower says there is no excuse for careless spending of Army funds—that may mean that officers' families in Germany will lose one maid.

The quota seems to be three maids for a family of four—if this is part of the "Keep America strong" program it must have been written by Marie Antoinette.

The Army genius who decided to pay German maids eight cents an hour for a 60-hour week sure is selling democracy—short.

Anyhow it's good to know that the Army is keeping its pigeon service even in the face of budget cuts.

As most pigeons are living on peanuts there should be a rush of volunteers.

Applicants should state what they are doing now—if it isn't any different from what other pigeons are doing don't bother.

President Answers To Bevin Blast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—President Truman tossed the dynamite-laden Palestine question back to British foreign minister Bevin today with the terse comment that the American recommendation for the admittance of 100,000 Jews to the Holy Land was not motivated by politics.

The White House said that Bevin's charge last Tuesday that Mr. Truman had undermined British negotiations over the Palestine problem last October had created a "most unfortunate and misleading" impression.

The American statement declared that President Truman "merely reaffirmed" an attitude toward Palestine and Jewish immigration into the Holy Land which the United States government has publicly expressed since the Summer of 1945.

The White House emphasized that "this attitude was and is based upon the desire of the President to advance a just solution of the Palestine problem."

Bevin also was reminded that Mr. Truman had communicated the American position to Prime Minister Attlee by letter on August 31, 1945.

Again referring to Bevin's charge of politics, the White House said:

"America's interest in Palestine is of long and continuing standing. It is a deep and abiding interest shared by our people without regard to their political affiliation."

Mr. Truman's position received the support of both Republicans and Democrats who were aroused deeply by Bevin's remarks.

CAR SHORTAGE RELIEF IS SEEN

Steps Taken To End Freight Car Famine By Railroads, Steel, Building Firms

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—Early relief from the industry-slowing freight car famine appeared near today as the steel, railroad and car-building industries took steps to more than triple present car production.

The goal all down the line was 10,000 cars a month, compared to current output of less than 3,000.

The steel industry is committed to supply enough metal to produce cars at that rate, the builders are pledged to make them at that rate and the railroads are committed to buy them at that rate.

These agreements were reached at a conference of top-level industry and government officials sponsored by Sen. Reed (R) Kan., chairman of a senate subcommittee which has been investigating the critical car shortage.

Reed said the 10,000 cars-a-month plan will go into operation immediately and that the peak production rate should be reached in June.

Reed admitted that a pig iron shortage, which affects wheel and brake production still is a problem, but he said that the promises of adequate steel was a tremendous victory.

He pointed out that the allocation of steel for new cars will be matched by allocation of a proportionate amount for repair parts, which are sorely needed by the present war-worn freight car supply.

The Kansas senator said that if there are no strikes or other production interferences, there should be enough steel to meet freight car demands without curtailing other industries. A steel company executive said, however, that it may be necessary to curtail some industries which are heavy steel consumers.

LIQUOR BUYER NAMED

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27—Gale B. Clymer, Columbus, was designated today by state liquor director Stanley B. Cofall to be in charge of liquor purchases. His base salary is $3,600 a year.

An Unhappy American In London

BECAUSE HIS PARENTS, Paul and Nana Gollner Petroff, America's internationally famous ballet artists, accepted a guest appearance in London, 13-month-old Paul Petroff, Jr., is experiencing Britain's severe winter. As the country's fuel crisis abates, the threat of a severe food shortage looms, which is reason enough—tears or no—that the ballerina win her bottle battle with her young son. To replenish her baby's larder, Mrs. Gollner must visit the food office and collect the child's special official ration.

Terrified Peasants Flee Before Etna Lava Stream

AT THE FOOT OF VOLCANIC MT. ETNA, SICILY, Feb. 27—Flaming rivers of lava coursed down the northern slope of Mt. Etna today, threatening farms and villages and driving terrified peasants from their homes.

The molten flow had approached to within a mile of the villages of Passo Pisciaro and Cisterna, and had become a potential menace to Palomba, Colla Basso and Castiglione.

Its speed—estimated yesterday at about 225 feet per hour—had picked up to about 457 yards per hour as it hurled down steeper slopes.

(A Rome dispatch to the London Daily Express reported that an official state of emergency had been declared in the surrounding countryside.)

Three separate streams from the erupting volcano have now joined and filled ravines that earlier had retarded their advance. Some of the obliterated ravines were said to have been 600 feet deep.

The front of this combined lava river was 330 yards wide and 20 feet deep.

A mile-square avenue of destruction has been blazed through the oak forest above Castiglione.

Observers with telescopes watched concrete observation platforms along the slope of the volcano crumble and fly into the air as though they had suffered direct hits from a gigantic artillery barrage.

Inhabitants of Passo Pisciaro abandoned their homes last night under the threat of the approaching lava stream.

Passengers injured with Bullock were Mildred Zwyer, 21, Canal Winchester, who suffered a fractured arm and head cuts, and William Entsminger, Lancaster, who had a fractured arm and severe lacerations of the head. Both are in the Lancaster hospital.

Mrs. May Martin, 65, Lancaster, a passenger on the bus was treated for a bruised leg and shock. The bus driver, Wilbur Briggs, 46, also of Lancaster, received only minor injuries.

NONE INJURED IN TWO TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS HERE

Although considerable property damage was reported no one was injured, according to police, in two traffic accidents Wednesday afternoon and night in Circleville.

The car of Hartley H. Wilson, 57, millwright, 345 Walnut street, which he drove south on Court street, was badly damaged at 6:30 p. m. when it was in collision with a tractor-trailer owned by the National Refining company, Cleveland, and driven west on Main street by Harold K. Fetter, 31, of Highland.

At 3:35 p. m. the automobiles of Charles E. Hall, 26, assistant manager, 112½ East Franklin street, and Palmer M. Daniel, 68, farmer, Route 1, Circleville, collided at the intersection of East Franklin and South Pickaway streets. Police said the Hall machine was slightly damaged.

AMPUTEE VETS MUST FILE AUTO CLAIMS BY JULY 1

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27—Veterans administration officials announced today that Ohio veterans who are eligible for vehicles at government expense under the "autos for amputees" program must file their claims by July 1.

Columbus branch VA office said that to date, 732 amputee veterans in Ohio have been certified as eligible to obtain autos at government expense. Claims must be filed by July 1 even though in some cases delivery of autos will be later.

COFALL WOULD HAVE POLICE ENFORCE LAWS

Liquor Director Suggests Local Officials Watch Gambling Spots

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27—Liquor Director Stanley B. Cofall recommended today that enforcement of gambling laws in liquor spots be left to local police officers.

The director told the special senate liquor investigating committee that he found morale among enforcement agents "spotty" when he became director Jan. 13.

Asked by committee counsel Frank J. Collopy how he would improve morale, the director answered:

"Leave enforcement as to gambling to local (police) agencies. Repeal the regulation as to gambling. That would help considerably."

"In some cities we found that certain types of gambling devices (pinball machines) are legalized. We can't make a general state-wide ruling on that."

Cofall said he was forced to reorganize the department when he came into office and that he found "not even a scrap of paper" to guide him in his duties.

"All I was told was that 'here is your chair,'" Cofall stated.

The director outlined the functions of his department and reported gross sales had increased from about 75 millions in 1943 to 139 millions in 1946. During this period, profits rose from 13 million, 156 thousand dollars to 14 million, 366 thousand.

Cofall explained the general operations of his department as the committee conducted its third public hearing.

EFFORT MADE TO SPEED LIGHTS

Gilmore And Miller Trying To Learn Why New Light Materials Not Here

In an attempt to speed the shipment of necessary materials for installation of Circleville's new 37-unit boulevard lighting system Charles T. Gilmore, Circleville manager for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company and City Safety Director Thurman I. Miller left the city early Thursday for a motor trip to Canton.

The two men were to join other officials of the power company who were to accompany Mr. Gilmore and Director Miller to the northeastern Ohio city.

Although on Feb. 7 Mr. Gilmore said that plans called for completion of the installation of the new boulevard lighting system and the placing of it in operation within 60 to 90 days, that declaration was predicated upon the belief that essential materials would arrive speedily.

Since then, it is reported, the shipments failed to arrive, perhaps due to prevalent shortages or to labor difficulties or other work stoppages in the steel industry in the Canton area. The

COLUMBUS FIRE CHIEF DIES OF HEART AILMENT

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27—Fire Chief Edward P. Welch of Columbus died this morning in Mt. Carmel hospital of a heart ailment.

The 55-year-old chief had been ill in the hospital since Monday night.

Welch had been a member of the Columbus fire department since 1913 and had been chief since 1933. He served during the war as a captain with the fifth service command.

8 Japs To Be Tried For Horror Ship Mass Deaths

TOKYO, Feb. 27—Eight Japanese were ordered today to stand trial for the deaths of 1300 American and Allied prisoners of war aboard three "hell ships."

The victims perished during a six-weeks journey from Manila to Formosa. They were herded aboard the prison ships at the Philippine capital less than a month before Gen. Douglas MacArthur's liberating legions invaded Luzon.

Alva C. Carpenter, chief of the legal section of MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo, announced that the eight accused Japanese will be placed on trial March 6 in Yokohama.

Carpenter said the accused Japanese include a shipmaster, a POW guard commander, an interpreter, and medical non-commissioned guards.

The headquarters legal expert disclosed that 1,619 POWs, mostly Americans, were removed from Bilibid in Manila December 13, 1944 and were "packed in the holds of the horror ship Oryoku Maru."

He said the wretched victims were not given food or water and had no room to lie down. Survivors testified that many of them suffocated, died from other causes or went mad.

A United States plane bombed the unmarked Oryoku Maru and killed 100 prisoners. Those who survived and regained the Luzon shore were herded into the holds of the Brazil Maru and the Enoura Maru.

A total of 900 survivors reached Formosa aboard both vessels. Then all prisoners aboard the Enoura were transferred to Japan—a journey on which the daily death rate climbed to 40.

Four hundred, fifty men were still alive when the Brazil reached Japan, but many of these died shortly afterward.

BELGIANS RIOT BUT BONUS BILL MAY NOT PASS

BRUSSELS, Feb. 27—Belgian government officials saw little likelihood today in Parliament's passing the "bonus" bill in support of which 50,000 former war prisoners rioted yesterday in Brussels.

The riot was quelled only after 65 persons had been injured and one by-stander had died of a heart attack.

Armed guards stood outside parliament and the royal palace today among wrecked automobiles, smashed weapons, torn banners and fragments from broken windows.

No one expected a re-kindling of yesterday's violence when the demonstrators charged on parliament and tore down iron gates and fences before they were driven back by mounted police with drawn swords.

SOLONS WANT TO KNOW ABOUT SHIPS RETURN

Secretary Subpoenaed To Tell Why 100 Ships Not Returned

COMMUNICATIONS SECRET

Weichel Wonders If Russia Is 'Sacred Cow Of State Department'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—A congressional committee today ordered a subpoena served on Secretary of State Marshall directing him to appear tomorrow to explain why approximately 100 lend-lease merchant ships have not been returned to the United States by Russia.

The subpoena was issued by Rep. Alvin F. Weichel (R) Ohio, chairman of a house merchant marine subcommittee. The Sandusky, Ohio, congressman placed the subpoena in the hands of house sergeant at arms William Russell for service.

In issuing the subpoena, Weichel explained that Undersecretary of State Clayton, while testifying several weeks ago, said that an unsatisfactory reply had been received from the Soviet government to the American request that the ships be returned to this country.

Weichel added that Clayton refused to disclose to the committee contents of the reply received from Russia.

Weichel added, in a statement: "Since the refusal to disclose the contents of the correspondence covering these ships with Russia, I am informed the department of state has disclosed communications from countries in the western hemisphere. Could it be that Russia is the sacred cow of the state department?"

The subpoena directed Marshall to "bring with him all books, papers, communications and other memoranda covering the matter of approximately 100 merchant ships owned by the United States now in the possession of the Russian government, and communications to and replies of Russia."

Marshall was directed in the subpoena to appear tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. before Weichel's subcommittee on ship sales, charters and layups.

The subcommittee has been holding hearings relative to the return of merchant ships from allied nations which were transferred to them during the war under the lend-lease act.

Weichel declared that since Clayton testified, "the Russians have issued a statement that the United States and Great Britain divided 470,000 tons of merchant shipping taken from the Germans. Up to this time the committee has no information of the United States receiving any such tonnage."

Weichel asked: "What connection could there be with reference to this statement and the Russians keeping our ships?"

nati), demanded that Edward E. Tharp, former assistant supervisor of stores under Governor Lausche, be recalled to the stand.

Brooks acted after Tharp, who was the principal witness at Monday's hearing, authored a pamphlet attacking the monopoly system.

"In my opinion," said Brooks, "he should be recalled by the committee to explain his position. It appears he used the investigating committee as a sounding board for his philosophies."

Tharp had declared that the office of liquor director should be abolished and a bi-partisan board substituted "if we are to have the state in the liquor business."

Tharp's testimony led observers to the belief that the investigation, originally authorized by the senate to probe the truth of rumors and reports of maladministration in the department, was taking on the tinge of an inquiry into the feasibility of the monopoly system.

RED ISSUE IS RAISED IN OHIO BONUS HEARING

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27.—The Communist issue came to the fore today in bonus hearings being conducted by the military affairs committees of the Ohio legislature.

Joseph Chaka, Cleveland veteran and one of the leaders of the bonus march on the capital Tuesday, first refused to answer the question if he were a Communist and later admitted to newsmen that he had been a party member.

Chaka presented the demands of the bonus marchers, now formed under the name of the "Congress of Ohio Veterans' Organizations," for a bonus to be retired out of an income tax on higher bracket incomes, or a tax on gambling, or a tax on corporation incomes.

He said the veteran was against any plan that would make him bear a portion of the cost.

The sub-committees later got into a discussion of the possibility of submitting to the voters in November just the bare question of whether or not they wanted a soldier bonus to be paid, with the method of retiring the necessary bonds to be decided by the legislature.

Although slightly warmer weather is promised for the Circleville area on Friday the weatherman was unable to say whether March will arrive Saturday as a "lamb" or a "lion."

Miss Spring is scheduled to make her debut in just three more weeks—on March 21. Skies will be generally fair with continued cold temperatures Thursday night, the official forecast said, with increasing cloudiness and not so cold Friday, followed by light snow by Friday night.

YOUNG'S GROUP WOULD ASSURE WORKERS JOBS

Railway Executive Lashes At Politicians In Cleveland Talk

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27—Robert R. Young, the little giant of American railroading, asserts that his new federation for railway progress will seek to assure railroad workers three years of uninterrupted work in the event of a depression.

The hard-hitting chairman of the board of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad told the Cleveland Advertising club that "it is my belief that if every industry did likewise, a depression would never come—such would be the confidence of business and the housewife be."

Referring to efforts made to curb his expanding railway empire, Young said that "on at least one occasion, a Wall street landlord thought he had us in the bag, but every Van Sweringen property is still quartered here—stronger than ever."

"The federation for railway progress has moved in—and at least one Cleveland thinks he can see the smoke of the New York Central coming round the bend."

Young lashed at "politicians" whom he said were reverting the ideals and dictums of the constitution "by taking the limitations off the politicians and putting them on the people."

"They have us split upon a rail. They impose upon us the evils of statism—controls, subsidies, confiscatory taxation—but deprive us of its vicious strength—cheap and compulsory labor."

"How are we to meet Russia with capital chained and labor free? They must both be free."

The dynamic railroad head called for the return of the business executive to the fields of both public relations and government, "if we are to recapture our government."

He added that "the only excuse I can see for the abdication of our producers from government is the fact that the politicians, through their bureaus of cock-eyed administrative justice have coerced us into submission."

Young pointed to present "red tape" as a further handicap to "the honest as against the dishonest" by forcing them to take a month out of every productive year to keep books and fill out unnecessarily complex forms.

"Indeed the most productive are forced to work 11 months to pay their tax, the 12th month to record it," he concluded.

MOTORISTS FINED

Three motorists, each charged with driving 70 miles an hour on U. S. Route 23 near Circleville, were fined $10 and costs each on speeding charges Tuesday night. Denzel Whitten, who was taken into custody by State Highway Patrolman R. A. Brinkles, was fined by Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

10,000 CHECKS SENT OUT DAILY FROM AUDITOR

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27 — Checks written last year by the office of auditor of state Joseph T. Ferguson would, if laid end to end, reach from Columbus to a point 500 miles out in the Pacific ocean.

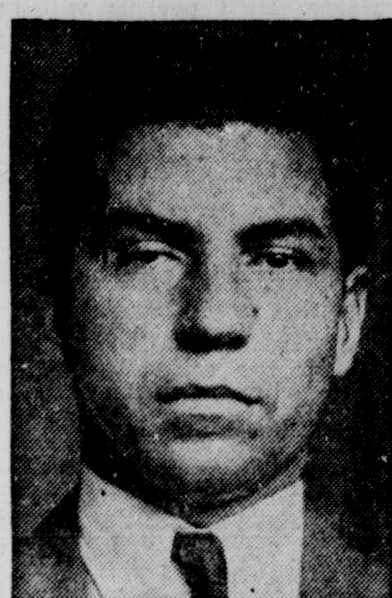

Ferguson reported today that 2,677,869 checks were written for a total state expenditure of nearly a half-billion dollars, topping all previous records by more than 80 millions.

The actual total was $468,182,140, or $82,627,330 more than the previous high total reached in 1945.

On an average, some 10,000 checks were sent out each working day.

SEEDS OF WEEDS LIVE AS LONG AS FIFTY YEARS

Why weed-free patches—from the oats field to the front yard—suddenly become alive with undesirable plants has been discovered by seed specialists of the Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Columbus. They claim that some weed seeds may lie in the ground for nearly half a century before sprouting forth in all their glory.

Studies, they reveal, show that more than 15 per cent of the following seeds germinated after a 39-year period in the soil: Pokeweed, rough cinquefoil, bush clover, velvet leaf, evening primrose, hedge bindweed, small flowered white morning glory, Jimson weed, ragweed, common mullein, black nightshade, scotch thistle, black-eyed susan, tobacco black locust and red clover.

SINO-REDS MAKE NEW GAINS ON CHIANG FORCES

Nationalists Admit Reverses
By Communist Forces
In Manchuria

PEIPING, Feb. 27.—Nationalist strongholds guarding the approaches to Changchun, capital of rich Manchuria, toppled today before a Chinese Communist offensive that swept to within nine miles of the city's northern suburbs.

Government sources, stressing the power of the red offensive, admitted that columns of the famed Communist eighth route army have encircled Changchun on three sides.

A triangular nationalist front, with its apex on the Sungari river before Harbin and its base-line running through Changchun, appeared to be crumbling rapidly under the trip-hammer Communist onslaught.

The key city of Nungan, 36 miles northwest of Changchun, fell to a Communist column rolling up the right flank of the Nationalists' Manchurian front.

The government's Central news agency acknowledged that Teh-Hui, principal bastion of the Nationalist right wing, was completely surrounded by red troops. Teh-Hui is 54 miles northeast of Changchun.

South of embattled Manchuria, government forces in central Shantung province were reported in Chinese dispatches to be facing a serious new threat.

Counter-attacking Communist troops in that area were disclosed to have occupied the Tsinan airport, five miles outside of Tsinan, capital of Shantung.

Only yesterday Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek returned to Nanking after a flying visit to Tsinan. His plane took off from the same Tsinan airfield that was captured about 24 hours later by his mortal enemies, the Communists.

A Nationalist offensive in southern Shantung, however, was continuing to roll northward. A government column advancing up the Tientsin-Pukow railroad captured the important city of Tsohsien, 82 miles south of Tsinan.

OHIO CHURCH COUNCIL OPPOSES LIQUOR SYSTEM

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27.—The Ohio Council of Churches went on record today as opposed to the monopoly liquor system in Ohio.

Dr. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the group, told some 50 Protestant ministers at a two-day legislative seminar: "It is time for the church to wake up and organize an effective campaign to put the liquor business back in the hands of the disreputable, so that youth will understand that to play with liquor or any of its associates is a dangerous business."

A figure of a serpent with a ruby in its mouth was a popular love token in the past.

What's smart for '47? BUICK!

That grille's as fresh and fashion-worthy as a Paris label in a new bonnet.

That long, clean, sweeping-all-the-way-through fender line is as much a "must" with the style-wise as white tie with tails.

There's the sparkle of bright, fresh colors — the rich sheen of chaste chrome — the sleek, slick, able look of an express cruiser, shined and polished for Regatta Day.

But is this the only way in which Buick's smart? Not by a barrelful!

Look at the engine room in that bonnet — that means torrents of Fireball power to put the lift of a lifetime in every mile.

That hug-the-road look means steadiness always — and cushiony coil springs on all four wheels spell serene disregard of any road's rude jolts.

Look at the width amidships that gives you lolling room both front and back — and at push-button controls that not only raise and lower the top, but move door windows up and down and the front seat back and forth.

And look deeper. At engines so fine-made they keep their new-car liveliness seemingly forever. At stout metals and sturdy underpinning, at husky, curl-around bumpers, controls light as a ladyfinger; at wheels that curb heel-over on turns, and brakes both easy and sure.

Fact is, in this trim Convertible or any of the eight other body types, Buick's the smartest buy as well as '47's smartest car. It's the place where dollar-sense meets with style-sense to produce America's most wanted automobile.

Such being so — why hesitate? A day lost now in placing an order can be a week lost later in taking delivery, so — get your order in now!

RUSSIAN CHEMICALS

REPORTS FROM Berlin say that Russia has given up the idea of a great chemical industry, with a surplus for export. Their more modest present aim is to furnish enough chemicals to keep Russian industry and agriculture going.

At the beginning of the occupation of Germany, the Russians decided to dismantle the great German chemical plants and reassemble them in Russia, complete with German research workers and technicians. But sixty to eighty per cent of the delicate equipment was unfit for use on arrival in Russia, while personnel problems developed among the German workers transplanted into a strange environment. This movement has now been halted, and some plants even moved back to Germany. There, they are meeting with difficulties due to lack of fuel and also to a break-up of the former interdependence among phases of the chemical industry.

Russia's grandiose plans for world dominance lack a solid, substantial background of achievement. She must first put her own house in order, which will take much more than the five years allotted to that task. In this process will the people themselves be able to enforce upon their leaders a program for peace rather than for conquest?

INDIA'S FUTURE

THERE HAS been much hue and cry in various corners of the world about British domination of India. Whatever Britain did or didn't do in that vast realm was wrong. But Prime Minister Attlee has startled everybody, including England, by his announcement that in June of '48 the British are pulling out of India. This gives even those most critical of British rule pause for very sober second thought.

India is anything but united. Unless the Moslems can be persuaded to withdraw their demand for a separate state and join with the Congress Party, largely Hindus, in a united India, the country's 400 million people are faced with civil war when England leaves. Worse than even this horror, from the world's point of view, is the question immediately uppermost: will some other nation move in to gain control of India? Will undefended India be a plum the U.S.S.R. will try to grab? And in such a situation, will the United States be forced to enter the picture to keep world balance and peace?

There is some hope that England's announcement will force the warring elements of India to harmony; but viewed against India's history, it is a pretty slim hope.

Assignment: America.... by Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—This is an open letter to Floyd B. (Skipper) Rigdon, the sawed-off, calf-ropping publisher of the Carlsbad, New Mexico, Daily Current-Argus.

A few years ago, as editor of same, I labored under the illusion that I was of considerable importance in getting out a right newsy-looking paper—an illusion, I might add, that the boys in the back room daily succeeded in shattering.

But that's all pie-eyed under the stone now, so on with the letter:

Dear Skipper—

If you have been paying any attention to the way certain senators have been playing politics and killing time in these atomic energy commission hearings up on Capitol hill lately, you probably will understand why I'm writing.

I was just sorta wondering if you're short-handed, nowadays—well, that is, if maybe you need a good man with a typewriter, or, uh, if you think you might have a job open out there one of these days.

We wouldn't have any trouble getting together on the salary, Skipper. Just fix me up with a little credit at the grocery and clothing stores (with prices like they are, I'd rather have that than cash, anyway!) and get the missus a pass to the picture show now and then, and we'd get along.

Except for one thing...

You see, I wouldn't be available of nights anymore, Skip-on account of I'm not planning to live here in town. In fact, that's the whole point. Lately, I've been loafing around shooting the bull with some spelunkers here in Washington for the annual convention of the National Speleological Society, which gets its name from a Greek word spelaios, meaning cave.

Thus, spelunking means having fun in caves, and you can tell your cowboy friends (Joe and Elmer, I mean) to stop that loud laughing, right now! It doesn't have a thing to do with what they're thinking. It merely means adventuring in the dark—oh, what's the use! There they go again.

Anyhow, these spelunkers who go crawling around exploring caves in their spare time listened to a speech here by Captain Rupert Draeger, a Navy medical officer who was in charge of research during the Bikini atom bomb testing business.

When the captain first commented that all a man needs when an atom bomb explodes is six feet of earth, there was only one slight snort of sepulchral laughter—and it came from a long-faced spelunker in the last row who later turned out to be a mortician in his topside moments.

In short, it was too funeral to be funny. As a gag, it fell flatter than a tenderfoot trying to top a tough bronc.

But the captain claimed he wasn't smart-cracking—that he was quite serious. He said earth just naturally absorbs gamma rays and all that deadly radioactivity from an atomic explosion, and that furthermore six feet of it is plenty of protection.

So the spelunkers promptly started forming a full-fledged scientific society for the subterranean salvation of the nation—and I started thinking about that beautiful big room down in the Carlsbad caverns, with all those thousands of feet of lovely absorbent earth overhead!

So that's the story, Skipper. I want to live in the caverns, cultivate my little guano victory garden and commute those 30 miles into town for the job.

Once, I wasn't so skeptical about our atomic situation. But that was before certain senators started procrastinating by playing political peek-a-boo with atomic commission appointments.

At the rate they're going now, when the first atomic bomb drops on Washington some of those senators are going to get fissioned right in the act of filibustering!

Me, I want to be spelunking.

Sincerely,
Ken Dixon

P. S. to the Current-Argus printers: Don't get reckless with spelunking, sepulchral and spelunker—just because they look like your ordinary typographical errors. Ya-a-a-h!

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—Here is an inside unofficial report on Germany, Japan and the American occupations (paraphrased conversationally) from an Army man who has studied both sectors. Keep this one for your scrapbooks, because the top men are said to be growing alive to the deplorable situation it presents concerning the occupation of Germany. In line with it, General Marshall may change policy in the coming Moscow talks for a German treaty and the Army certainly will be induced to make some corrections at least, if it does not overturn its German setup. Here it is:

The occupation of Japan is nearly perfect. This has been accomplished because the Japanese are behind General MacArthur, not only 100 percent, but (in true Nipponese fashion) about 101 percent. Industries have been restored and are functioning as well as anyone expected. There are some defects but Japan is considerably supporting herself.

Far more important, the American soldier in Japan is a model. The officers have no trouble on looting, black markets, or even much on morality. Following the guidance set forth by MacArthur, they are cooperating with the people, and the people with them.

In Germany the occupation is disgraceful. It is a disgrace to American arms and administration. About 45 percent of the occupation army, numbering nearly 200,000, are kids of less than 21 years of age. Another 30 to 35 percent are repeaters, lads who came back to the states, could not get or did not want a job, knew of the conditions of black marketing and looting to be found in central Europe, and went back to get into them.

But these kids and men are not to be held responsible for the corruption of the army of occupation. The men in charge should have set down an efficient program from the beginning as MacArthur did. Their trouble was that after the war they did not know what to do. They had no occupation formula such as MacArthur developed. So they turned for guidance to propaganda from home, and the most vociferous of the public here demanded swift denazification of any and all Germans, retributive punishment and other steps which have kept Germany from supporting herself. Denazification is all right, as a theory. I feel that way myself. But nearly everyone who knew how to run factories and business operations was naturally connected with the Nazi party one way or another, so what we have done is to debusinessize Germany in the process. It would have been far better if we had required some Nazis who knew how to do things, to work for us.

However you may look at this angle, our basic defect is that we did not improvise a workable plan for Germany because our commanders had not studied and did not know the German people. (MacArthur's economic and political aides had really studied Japan during the war.)

The Russian occupation is worse yet. The reds came in and took everything they could lay their hands on. They even took silk wall paper off the walls. In the Berlin subway they made off with so much of

DIET AND HEALTH

Inducing a Patient to Eat

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FOR years many efforts have been made to find a cure for people who drink too much. Many methods have been employed. Persuasion, mental treatment, exercise, drugs to produce vomiting and others to quiet nerves, have all been used but none has proved universally successful.

In spite of everything, some people retain their craving for alcohol and would anytime, as the saying goes, "rather drink than eat."

A New Treatment

Now we have a promising new treatment which seems to owe its effectiveness to the fact that it makes the alcoholic feel that he would rather eat than drink. Nearly half of the patients so treated have been able to give up alcohol at once, without any tapering off. The new treatment consists of injections of insulin. Insulin is a substance formed in the pancreas. It speeds up the body's consumption of sugar in the blood stream. For this reason it has been for years now a life-saver for diabetics, who do not form enough insulin in their own bodies in the normal way.

Makes Patient Hungry

When this insulin is given to a heavy drinker, he suddenly discovers about half-an-hour after the injection, that he is tremendously hungry, with a real craving for good solid food. The craving is so strong that until it is satisfied, it blocks out the craving for alcohol. Thus, he is soon able to break his long established habit of substituting alcohol for food.

This in itself is very important, according to Dr. Leopold Wexberg, of Washington, D. C., though it is not the whole story. For though the craving for drink is temporarily overcome by the insulin, it is a harder problem to keep the patient cured.

Diet is Important

According to Drs. Etem G. Vassaf and Voltra R. Hall of Massachusetts, who treated 43 alcoholic patients with insulin, it is important that the diet contain plenty of sugar and fruit juices. Patients were also given Vitamin B tablets.

It seems generally agreed that the drinker drinks because of a desire to escape from some sort of pressure, whether it be worry over home problems, business or some other form of anxiety.

Once the patient becomes aware of the cause of his anxiety and worry he is better able to root it out and get rid of it. This is not always easy and often requires a year or more of study by a psychiatrist. However, with the insulin treatment and temporary relief from the craving the patient is often able to shift his attention from the past to a more promising future. In any event it would appear that the insulin and vitamin treatment of alcoholism is worthy of further trial.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

JANET CONTINUED. "I would not give up. You can't realize the torture of not knowing whether someone you love is dead or alive. I wrote Claribel, and she had Madison investigate, but he sent word that it was impossible for Father to be alive without the vaqueros hearing about it. Finally, I learned that the Rubber Division wanted to open the New Dixie plantations, and I went back to Washington to see if I could get them to send me down. When they found out I had lived here, it was easy to persuade them I might be able to help you."

"Tell me one thing," Cliff interrupted. "Was it about your father you wanted to talk with Vicente the night he captured us?"

"Yes. The first day I saw Vicente at Wade Carroll, I was sure he knew something. I think he does. But he would only say he had known Father long ago."

"Have you spoken of this to Madison since you came back?"

Janet shook her head. "Father and Madison never liked each other. Father hated the way Madison's vaqueros treated the people on the river."

Watching her, with her head thrown back beneath the light, and earnest eyes on his, Cliff realized that at last she had dropped her guard against him. For the first time there could be full trust between them, but even now—perhaps now more than ever—he was powerless to help her, and sudden sympathy swept over him. More than anything in the world he wanted to say some word that might hold out hope to her, but he knew it was not hope she wanted—it was certainty—and to tell her the truth at this time might mean disaster.

Mutely he touched her hand, and in that simple, inarticulate gesture she sensed the offer of his friendship, for tears were in her eyes. She gave a tremulous laugh. "You don't know how much it means not to sail under false colors any more. From now on, whatever comes, you'll know why I'm here, and if it has to be war between you and Madison, you'll know where I stand."

"I hope you won't ever regret it." He sat down behind the desk. "Just now things look pretty dark, and it's no use denying that we may be beaten."

Standing beside his chair, she laid her hand on his shoulder. "You won't ever be beaten—you couldn't be beaten." The steady voice held a world of quiet trust and assurance. "I remember the night they took us captive, how you carried me for miles to the river. And I've listened to the tales Casey and the rest of them tell about you. Men like you can be killed, Cliff—they can't be beaten."

The low voice stopped, but he did not answer. Madison, Vicente, even the prospect of defeat had lost all importance, all reality. Nothing was important now except to know she believed in him, and was standing very close to him. Raising his head, he brushed her arm with his cheek, and almost without breathing felt the warm, living softness of her. He did not stir. Stronger than any will of his own, far stronger than any strength to resist or deny, the need for her surged over him like an engulfing wave. His cheek still lay against her arm, and turning, he touched it with his lips. Her body trembled, he heard the faint intake of her breath, and in that second he was on his feet, his arms about her.

"Janet!"

Within the hush of the little office he held her through a timeless fragment of eternity whose only measure lay in the quickened beating of a heart that matched the racing rhythm of his own. Her arms, moving upward over his khaki shirt, encircled him; the palms of her hands pressed him close in a caress that, even while it yielded, had all the fierce glad glory of possession.

"Janet!" The mass of copper hair lifted as she drew back her head. Her eyes, luminous beneath the lamp, were on his eyes; her lips, half parted, rose nearer, almost touched—then suddenly her eyes changed, and with a cry she gasped, "Cliff! The window—someone's outside."

He jerked open the door, but the night lay black and empty, and at a run he rounded the building, then stood listening. "Were you sure?" he called.

"I saw a face pressed against the pane, and then it was gone. I remember the eyes staring—"

Janet stopped. The long-drawn howl of a jaguar came to them from the darkness.

"It's Flinto," Cliff said, and the same thought flashed across the minds of both—had it been Lilli at the window?

But the spell of that moment was shattered. The shock of intrusion had thrust itself like a barrier between them, and Janet looked up at him with a tired smile.

"I'm dead, Cliff. Mind if I run along to bed? Too much has happened today."

"I know." He walked with her down the path to the door of her shack, then with both hands he raised her face and kissed her lips. "Remember this," he whispered. "We can't lose now—you and I."

Up in Claribel's office Madison sat white-faced and brooding. For nearly an hour after Janet left him he did not move, his slate-gray eyes fixed on the window. Then as if reaching a decision, he left the house and rode to the quarters of his vaqueros. The smoke-filled, barracks-like room was crowded with herdsman, and Madison counted them, then beckoned to Sloan.

The burly leader swaggered over. "What goes, Boss? You look kinda tough."

Madison cut him off. "Are these

all the vaqueros you have here?"

"Sure. Some are at the river camp, but most of 'em are in the upper ranges. What do you want done that us boys can't handle?"

"I want you to crack down on Cliff Bogard."

Sloan's eyes widened. "You mean—?"

"What's the sudden idea, Boss? I thought you was waitin' for the Blacklanders to tangle with him first."

"I'm done waiting."

"Ain't it kinda risky? Now if we waited until—"

"To heck with all that. I'm fed up, understand, fed up! Either he goes or I go, and this is as good a time as we'll ever have."

Sloan looked thoughtful. "If that's the job, I guess we'll need all the vaqueros we can round up."

"We'll need every man."

Sloan flicked his cigarette across the floor. "Okay. We'll start tomorrow."

Madison spat out an oath. "We'll start right now. It's going to take three or four days to bring them in from the upper ranges, even if we work fast, and I'm going with you. By midnight we can be at the river camp. By dawn we'll be in the upper range."

Sloan looked into Madison's face and reached for his spurs. "Whatever you say, Boss."

Skirting the village, the two men rode down the river trail, and an hour later they were passing Wade's clearing, where a light in the window of the main shack caught Madison's attention.

He reined in his horse. "I thought Wade and Lilli were living at the rubber camp."

"They were."

A shadow passed across the window, and Madison recognized Lilli. He raised his hand for silence, then leaned toward Sloan.

"I'd say she's alone. You stay out here and keep watch. I want a word or two with that lady."

Dismounting, Madison walked toward the shack. Twice he stopped to listen, then certain that no one else was within, threw open the door. At the sound Lilli turned, and beneath the lamplight he saw she had been weeping.

Terrified, the girl drew back. "What do you want?" Her voice was trembling.

He seated himself comfortably just inside the door. "I thought you were staying at the rubber camp."

So low he scarcely heard, she said, "I've left."

He looked at her with new interest. Yes, her cheeks were wet with tears. Had something really gone wrong at the camp, or was she lying? Was she here to bring some message from Bogard to Vicente? Again the disquieting suspicion assailed him that Bogard and Vicente might have reached a secret agreement.

Today's Horoscope

A birthday anniversary today means you have a very acquisitive faculty which, if cultivated, will make you financially successful. You are restless, but methodical in your habits; fond of responsibility, and like to be a leader.

You are devoted to your family and have their respect and love. The day's prospects are good for things that require time for development. Better stay on the conservative side for best results. Your affairs will be most favorable. Your happiness will be exceedingly and happily increased by yours in the year just starting for you. Guard against extravagance, however, and excessive liberality. Conserve some of your resources. The child born today will be exceptionally clever and lucky, and will go far. A bright, sunny, optimistic nature is indicated, also excessive generosity and some improvidence.

LISTEN TO THE BIDDING

It pays to listen closely to the bidding. And that means the bidding of your opponents as well as your partner's. You are likely to get information from them which is even more valuable to you than merely that which aids you to play the cards with good effect against them. Maybe the disclosure of their own suit lengths will enable you to read that your partner holds enough cards in your own long suit to support it as a trump for a profitable sacrifice.

You could hardly call that entire auction fine bidding. Most first rate players would open North's hand with 1-Diamond instead of 1-Spade, and the ensuing activity would have varied tremendously. Also, more players would have favored a double by East than 1-No Trump. Then again, after East's 1-No Trump, most players in the West would have bid either 3-Hearts or 4-Hearts on their first turn, and some would have bid 4-Hearts instead of three after East's 3-Clubs.

There was one really good bid, however, in the entire sequence. It was South's 5-Diamonds. The repeated calls by East and West had told him that they held so many cards in other suits, they could not have many diamonds. Consequently North had a fair number of them. As soon as the 4-Hearts bid showed a game was at stake, South then decided to sacrifice at 5-Diamonds. It proved profitable, too, as the only tricks lost were one in trumps, two in spades and one in hearts.

East and West could have made 5-Hearts if they had gone ahead and bid it, but East so resented the insult to his own strong bidding, when South cut in at the height of five, that he just couldn't help doubting.

It would be necessary only to attend school an hour or so a day for "personal guidance, examination and administrative detail."

Reaction from the crib set-already staggering under the prospects of robot planes and jet-propelled dish washers—was varied.

A blue-eyed blonde, in a buggy side interview, dropped her formula and enthusiastically commented, "coo." Registering skepticism over such grandiose promises, the master of a play pen removed his horn rimmed glasses, stuck his thumb in his

As Streibert foresees the future of elementary education, television will bring "the finest teachers in the nation" into the child's home. He added, "Furthermore, reading lists, study assignments and other illustrative material — even entire texts—will be transmitted at the same time over the facsimile receiver."

The possibilities are immeasurable — the honorable order of spital throwers would become a relic of the pre-electronic age.

Facsimile, not so widely publicized as television, is broadcast of the written word. Nor is it a vague promise of the future.

In Louisville, for instance, a handful of families for several years have been getting their daily newspaper from a machine in the living room. Thus far, it has been done in various communities throughout the country on an experimental level.

The householder does no more than switch the machine on, cut the pages apart as they roll out of the cabinet and put in a fresh roll of special paper every now and then. Static may blur the copy or make it a black smudge, but technicians are licking the problem gradually.

Facsimile can come in combination with old fashioned spoken broadcast. Simultaneous transmission will mean concerts with program notes, news reports illustrated with maps, baseball games with box scores, and cooking hints with recipes.

There will come a time, facsimile people promise, when you may be able to dial in your newspaper the way you dial in your nightly programs. If you feel like a New York paper in the morning set the dial. Change it in the evening to get a facsimile of the local newspaper.

One can now hear, see and read a radio. Next, taste?

A result of a "crew-clipping" his barber gave him recently, Jackie Kelk, squeaky-voiced "Homer" of the "Aldrich Family," now looks as well as sounds the part. The play will be tried out in Philadelphia and Boston before heading for New York and Broadway.

Circleville's Bingo Games Facing Legal Death

Bingo games in Circleville would be halted in the event the Ohio legislature passes a bill which is now in the hands of the Ohio senate's judiciary committee.

That committee during the past few days has been holding hearings at Columbus on the proposed law which would outlaw bingo games sponsored by religious and fraternal organizations.

Weekly bingo games are conducted in Circleville by two lodges. These games are open to the general public.

The bingo-banning bill was introduced by Senator George G. Shurtz, (Rep.) of Coshocton. At one of the committee hearings, held Tuesday night, Sen. Shurtz appealed to an overflow crowd which turned out for the hearing to join him in his attempt to obtain enactment of the bill into law.

"Bingo games are breaking up homes and are contributing to the delinquency of juveniles", Sen. Shurtz declared.

His chief supporters in the campaign to legalize bingo games in Ohio include the Rev. Ralph G. Sculley and the Rev. William H. Phillips, both of the Cleveland Federation of Churches; the Rev. Emerson D. Bragg, Hamilton; and the Rev. Boyd C. Rife, of the Columbus Ministerial Association.

They have argued before the senate's judiciary committee at the hearings that gambling is unlawful in the state and that bingo is gambling and that it should therefore be prohibited on the basis of illegality.

Many proponents of bingo games who are opposing the passage of the bill are expected to appear before the judiciary committee before the hearings are concluded.

In many communities throughout the state bingo games, sponsored by fraternal organizations, churches, and war veterans' organizations, have been heavily attended during the last few years.

There are at this time, however, no veteran-sponsored or church-sponsored bingo games in Circleville. The two weekly games now in operation, both sponsored by fraternal groups, have been well-attended. In both games the winners receive cash awards.

During the 40th annual four-day Pumpkin Show in Circleville last Oct. 16-19, a cash-award bingo game and a merchandise-award bingo game were operated.

MARSHALL ORDERED TO REPORT ON RUSSIA

President, Party Leaders Hold Discussion

FOREIGN POLICY IS TALKED OVER AT CONFERENCE

Moscow Meeting Is Subject
Under Discussion At White House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—President Truman held a full-dress discussion today with the top leaders of both parties in foreign affairs on the vitally important Moscow peace conference.

The chief executive called in Secretary of State Marshall and Under Secretary of State Acheson and eight leaders of both parties in the senate and house for a lengthy over-all review of American foreign policy in relation to this government's stand in the making of the peace.

The President conferred with his top advisers for an hour.

Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., chairman of the senate foreign relations committee as well as president pro tem of the senate, acted as spokesman for the conferees after the meeting broke up.

Vandenberg said the hour-long conference dwelt upon one subject: the Moscow conference.

He said: "On the eve of Secretary Marshall's departure for Moscow we had a general discussion of the European problem which is involved in the approaching meeting at Moscow."

Vandenberg said that was as far as he was permitted to go concerning the meeting.

He answered one question, however, explaining that the discussion was "entirely on European affairs."

Finances Not Up

A question was raised as to whether the meeting concerned budget matters and finance in view of the fact that Rep. Taber (R) N. Y., was reported to have been invited to the conference but was not present.

Vandenberg said it had nothing to do with financial matters, but to ask Taber when he came in to see the President.

Those present at the conference in addition to Marshall, Acheson and Vandenberg were: Speaker Martin (R) Mass., the senate and house minority leaders, Sen. Barkley (D) Ky., and Rep. Rayburn (D) Tex., Sen. Connally (D) Tex., who was former chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, Sen. Bridges (R) N. H., Rep. Eaton (R) N. J., chairman of the house foreign affairs committee and Rep. Bloom (D) N. Y.

President Answers To Bevin Blast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—President Truman tossed the dynamite-laden Palestine question back to British foreign minister Bevin today with the terse comment that the American recommendation for the admittance of 100,000 Jews to the Holy Land was not motivated by politics.

The White House said that Bevin's charge last Tuesday that Mr. Truman had undermined British negotiations over the Palestine problem last October had created a "most unfortunate and misleading" impression.

The American statement declared that President Truman "merely reaffirmed" an attitude toward Palestine and Jewish immigration into the Holy Land which the United States government has publicly expressed since the Summer of 1945.

The White House emphasized that "this attitude was and is based upon the desire of the President to advance a just solution of the Palestine problem."

Bevin also was reminded that Mr. Truman had communicated the American position to Prime Minister Attlee by letter on August 31, 1945.

Again referring to Bevin's charge of politics, the White House said:

"America's interest in Palestine is of long and continuing standing. It is a deep and abiding interest shared by our people without regard to their political affiliation."

Mr. Truman's position received the support of both Republicans and Democrats who were aroused deeply by Bevin's remarks.

CAR SHORTAGE RELIEF IS SEEN

Steps Taken To End Freight
Car Famine By Railroads,
Steel, Building Firms

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—Early relief from the industry-slowing freight car famine appeared near today as the steel, railroad and car-building industries took steps to more than triple present car production.

The goal all down the line was 10,000 cars a month, compared to current output of less than 3,000.

The steel industry is committed to supply enough metal to produce cars at that rate, the builders are pledged to make them at that rate and the railroads are committed to buy them at that rate.

These agreements were reached at a conference of top-level industry and government officials sponsored by Sen. Reed (R) Kan., chairman of a senate subcommittee which has been investigating the critical car shortage.

Reed said the 10,000 cars-a-month plan will go into operation immediately and that the peak production rate should be reached in June.

Reed admitted that a pig iron shortage, which affects wheel and brake production still is a problem, but he said that the promises of adequate steel was a tremendous victory.

He pointed out that the allocation of steel for new cars will be matched by allocation of a proportionate amount for repair parts, which are sorely needed by the present war-worn freight car supply.

The Kansas senator said that if there are no strikes or other production interferences, there should be enough steel to meet freight car demands without curtailing other industries. A steel company executive said, however, that it may be necessary to curtail some industries which are heavy steel consumers.

LIQUOR BUYER NAMED

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27—Gale B. Clymer, Columbus, was designated today by state liquor director Stanley B. Cofall to be in charge of liquor purchases. His base salary is $3,600 a year.

An Unhappy American In London

BECAUSE HIS PARENTS, Paul and Nana Gollner Petroff, America's internationally famous ballet artists, accepted a guest appearance in London, 13-month-old Paul Petroff, Jr., is experiencing Britain's severe winter. As the country's fuel crisis abates, the threat of a severe food shortage looms, which is reason enough—tears or no—that the ballerina win her bottle battle with her young son. To replenish her baby's larder, Mrs. Gollner must visit the food office and collect the child's special official ration.

Terrified Peasants Flee Before Etna Lava Stream

AT THE FOOT OF VOLCANIC MT. ETNA, SICILY, Feb. 27—Flaming rivers of lava coursed down the northern slope of Mt. Etna today, threatening farms and villages and driving terrified peasants from their homes.

The molten flow had approached to within a mile of the villages of Passo Pisciaro and Cisterna, and had become a potential menace to Palomba, Colla Basso and Castiglione.

Its speed—estimated yesterday at about 225 feet per hour—had picked up to about 457 yards per hour as it hurled down steeper slopes.

(A Rome dispatch to the London Daily Express reported that an official state of emergency had been declared in the surrounding countryside.)

Three separate streams from the erupting volcano have now joined and filled ravines that earlier had retarded their advance. Some of the obliterated ravines were said to have been 600 feet deep.

The front of this combined lava river was 330 yards wide and 20 feet deep.

A mile-square avenue of destruction has been blazed through the oak forest above Castiglione.

Observers with telescopes watched concrete observation platforms along the slope of the volcano crumble and fly into the air as though they had suffered direct hits from a gigantic artillery barrage.

Inhabitants of Passo Pisciaro abandoned their homes last night under the threat of the approaching lava stream.

COFALL WOULD HAVE POLICE ENFORCE LAWS

Liquor Director Suggests
Local Officials Watch
Gambling Spots

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27—Liquor Director Stanley B. Cofall recommended today that enforcement of gambling laws in liquor spots be left to local police officers.

The director told the special senate liquor investigating committee that he found morale among enforcement agents "spotty" when he became director Jan. 13.

Asked by committee counsel Frank J. Collopy how he would improve morale, the director answered:

"Leave enforcement as to gambling to local (police) agencies. Repeal the regulation as to gambling. That would help considerably."

"In some cities we found that certain types of gambling devices (pinball machines) are legalized. We can't make a general state-wide ruling on that."

Cofall said he was forced to reorganize the department when he came into office and that he found "not even a scrap of paper" to guide him in his duties.

"All I was told was that 'here is your chair,'" Cofall stated.

The director outlined the functions of his department and reported gross sales had increased from about 75 millions in 1943 to 139 millions in 1946. During this period, profits rose from 13 million, 156 thousand dollars to 14 million, 366 thousand.

Cofall explained the general operations of his department as the committee conducted its third public hearing.

Gilmore And Miller Trying To Learn Why New Light
Materials Not Here

In an attempt to speed the shipment of necessary materials for installation of Circleville's new 37-unit boulevard lighting system Charles T. Gilmore, Circleville manager for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company and City Safety Director Thurman I. Miller left the city early Thursday for a motor trip to Canton.

The two men were to join other officials of the power company who were to accompany Mr. Gilmore and Director Miller to the northeastern Ohio city.

Although on Feb. 7 Mr. Gilmore said that plans called for completion of the installation of the new boulevard lighting system and the placing of it in operation within 60 to 90 days, that declaration was predicated upon the belief that essential materials would arrive speedily.

Since then, it is reported, the shipments failed to arrive, perhaps due to prevalent shortages or to labor difficulties or other work stoppages in the steel industry in the Canton area. The (Continued on Page Two)

8 Japs To Be Tried For Horror Ship Mass Deaths

TOKYO, Feb. 27—Eight Japanese were ordered today to stand trial for the deaths of 1300 American and Allied prisoners of war aboard three "hell ships."

The victims perished during a six-weeks journey from Manila to Formosa. They were herded aboard the prison ships at the Philippine capital less than a month before Gen. Douglas MacArthur's liberating legions invaded Luzon.

Alva C. Carpenter, chief of the legal section of MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo, announced that the eight accused Japanese will be placed on trial March 6 in Yokohama.

Carpenter said the accused Japanese include a shipmaster, a POW guard commander, an interpreter, and medical non-commissioned guards.

The headquarters legal expert disclosed that 1,619 POWs, mostly Americans, were removed from Bilibid in Manila December 13, 1944 and were "packed in the holds of the horror ship Oryoku Maru."

He said the wretched victims were not given food or water and had no room to lie down. Survivors testified that many of them suffocated, died from other causes or went mad.

A United States plane bombed the unmarked Oryoku Maru and killed 100 prisoners. Those who survived and regained the Luzon shore were herded into the holds of the Brazil Maru and the Enoura Maru.

A total of 900 survivors reached Formosa aboard both vessels. Then all prisoners aboard the Enoura were transferred to the Brazil for shipment to Japan—a journey on which the daily death rate climbed to 40.

Four hundred, fifty men were still alive when the Brazil reached Japan, but many of these died shortly afterward.

They said that the teachers still on duty were under great emotional strain, that pupils were getting out of hand, that property was endangered, that schedules were upset and that truancy had reached an all-time high.

Dr. Baps's action in closing all the schools came after a special meeting of the board of education during which the principals of 18 schools told how the situation at their schools had become more or less intolerable.

Weichel Wonders If Russia Is 'Sacred Cow Of State Department'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—A congressional committee today ordered a subpoena served on Secretary of State Marshall directing him to appear tomorrow to explain why approximately 100 lend-lease merchant ships have not been returned to the United States by Russia.

The subpoena was issued by Rep. Alvin F. Weichel (R) Ohio, chairman of a house merchant marine subcommittee. The Sandusky, Ohio, congressman placed the subpoena in the hands of house sergeant at arms William Russell for service.

In issuing the subpoena, Weichel explained that Undersecretary of State Clayton, while testifying several weeks ago, said that an unsatisfactory reply had been received from the Soviet government to the American request that the ships be returned to this country.

Weichel added that Clayton refused to disclose to the committee contents of the reply received from Russia.

Weichel added, in a statement: "Since the refusal to disclose the contents of the correspondence covering these ships with Russia, I am informed the department of state has disclosed communications from countries in the western hemisphere. Could it be that Russia is the sacred cow of the state department?"

The subpoena directed Marshall to "bring with him all books, papers, communications and other memoranda covering the matter of approximately 100 merchant ships owned by the United States now in the possession of the Russian government, and communications to and replies of Russia."

Marshall was directed in the subpoena to appear tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. before Weichel's subcommittee on ship sales, charters and layups.

The subcommittee has been holding hearings relative to the return of merchant ships from allied nations which were transferred to them during the war under the lend-lease act.

Weichel declared that since Clayton testified, "the Russians have issued a statement that the United States and Great Britain divided 470,000 tons of merchant shipping taken from the Germans. Up to this time the committee has no information of the United States receiving any such tonnage."

Weichel asked: "What connection could there be with reference to this statement and the Russians keeping our ships?"

ONE MAN'S OPINION

by Walter Kiernan

Ike Eisenhower says there is no excuse for careless spending of Army funds—that may mean that officers' families in Germany will lose one maid.

The quota seems to be three maids for a family of four—if this is part of the "Keep America strong" program it must have been written by Marie Antoinette.

The Army genius who decided to pay German maids eight cents an hour for a 60-hour week sure is selling democracy—short.

Anyhow it's good to know that the Army is keeping its pigeon service even in the face of budget cuts.

As most pigeons are living on peanuts there should be a rush of volunteers.

Applicants should state what they are doing now—if it isn't any different from what other pigeons are doing don't bother.

COFALL WOULD HAVE POLICE ENFORCE LAWS

Tharp, demanded that Edward E. Tharp, former assistant supervisor of stores under Governor Lausche, be recalled to the stand.

Brooks acted after Tharp, who was the principal witness at Monday's hearing, authored a pamphlet attacking the monopoly system.

"In my opinion," said Brooks, "he should be recalled by the committee to explain his position. It appears he used the investigating committee as a sounding board for his philosophies."

Tharp had declared that the office of liquor director should be abolished and a bi-partisan board substituted "if we are to have the state in the liquor business."

Tharp's testimony led observers to the belief that the investigation, originally authorized by the senate to probe the truth of rumors and reports of maladministration in the department, was taking on the tinge of an inquiry into the feasibility of the monopoly system.

RED ISSUE IS RAISED IN OHIO BONUS HEARING

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27—The Communist issue came to the fore today in bonus hearings being conducted by the military affairs committee of the Ohio legislature.

Joseph Chaka, Cleveland veteran and one of the leaders of the bonus march on the capital Tuesday, first refused to answer the question if he were a Communist and later admitted to newsmen that he had been a party member.

Chaka presented the demands of the bonus marchers, now formed under the name of the "Congress of Ohio Veterans' Organizations," for a bonus to be retired out of an income tax on higher bracket incomes, or a tax on gambling, or a tax on corporation incomes.

He said the veteran was against any plan that would make him bear a portion of the cost.

The sub-committees later got into a discussion of the possibility of submitting to the voters in November just the bare question of whether or not they wanted a soldier bonus to be paid, with the method of retiring the necessary bonds to be decided by the legislature.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. These pains are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

YOUNG'S GROUP WOULD ASSURE WORKERS JOBS

Railway Executive Lashes At Politicians In Cleveland Talk

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27—Robert R. Young, the little giant of American railroading, asserts that his new federation for railway progress will seek to assure railroad workers three years of uninterrupted work in the event of a depression.

The hard-hitting chairman of the board of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad told the Cleveland Advertising club that "it is my belief that if every industry did likewise, a depression would never come—such would be the confidence of business and the housewife be."

Referring to efforts made to curb his expanding railway empire, Young said that "on at least one occasion, a Wall street landlord thought he had us in the bag, but every Van Sweringen property is still quartered here—stronger than ever."

"The federation for railway progress has moved in—and at least one Clevelander thinks he can see the smoke of the New York Central coming round the bend."

Young lashed at "politicians" whom he said were reverting to the ideals and dictums of the constitution "by taking the limitations off the politicians and putting them on the people."

"They have us split upon a rail. They impose upon us the evils of statism—controls, subsidies, confiscatory taxation—but deprive us of its vicious strength—cheap and compulsory labor."

"How are we to meet Russia with capital chained and labor free? They must both be free." The dynamic railroad head called for the return of the business executive to the fields of both public relations and government, "if we are to recapture our government."

He added that "the only excuse I can see for the abdication of our producers from government is the fact that the politicians, through their bureaus of cock-eyed administrative justice have coerced us into submission."

Young pointed to present "red tape" as a further handicap to "the honest as against the dishonest" by forcing them to take a month out of every productive year to keep books and fill out unnecessarily complex forms.

"Indeed the most productive are forced to work 11 months to pay their tax, the 12th month to record it," he concluded.

MOTORISTS FINED

Three motorists, each charged with driving 70 miles an hour on U. S. Route 23 near Circleville, were fined $10 and costs each on speeding charges Tuesday night. Eugene Walker, of Arizona, and Frank Ruth, of Columbus, both arrested by State Highway Patrolman C. E. Wells, were penalized by Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland. Denzel Whitten, who was taken into custody by State Highway Patrolman R. A. Brinkley, was fined by Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

MUSKINGUM COUPLE TO SPEND WEEKENDS IN JAIL

ZANESVILLE, O., Feb. 27 — Mr. and Mrs. Earl Besser, South Zanesville, will spend their next 15 weekends in Muskingum county jail for failure to provide for their six children.

10,000 CHECKS SENT OUT DAILY FROM AUDITOR

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27 — Checks written last year by the office of auditor of state Joseph T. Ferguson would, if laid end to end, reach from Columbus to a point 500 miles out in the Pacific ocean.

Ferguson reported today that 2,677,869 checks were written for a total state expenditure of nearly a half-billion dollars, topping all previous records by more than 80 millions.

The actual total was $468,182,140, or $82,627,330 more than the previous high total reached in 1945.

On an average, some 10,000 checks were sent out each working day.

SEEDS OF WEEDS LIVE AS LONG AS FIFTY YEARS

Why weed-free patches—from the oats field to the front yard—suddenly become alive with undesirable plants has been discovered by seed specialists of the Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Columbus. They claim that some weed seeds may lie in the ground for nearly half a century before sprouting forth in all their glory.

Studies, they reveal, show that more than 15 per cent of the following seeds germinated after a 39-year period in the soil: Pokeweed, rough cinquefoil, bush clover, velvet leaf, evening primrose, hedge bindweed, small flowered white morning glory, Jimson weed, ragweed, common mullein, black nightshade, scotch thistle, black-eyed susan, tobacco black locust and red clover.

Collapsible Nursing Bottle Newest Gadget To Glorify U. S. Babies

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27—The infant of today and tomorrow is going to be a glorified little cuss. Well, anyway, he can be if his parents shell out the wherewithal to equip him with the necessary accoutrements to infancy—hood now available.

There's everything from sterile, collapsible, disposable nursing bottles to incubators complete with respirators and "self-feeders" for today's infant.

Vitamins, penicillin, soaps, talcum powder containing olive oil or germicides to prevent or cure rashes, diapers with new absorbency, scientific toys from teething rings to bathtub floaters, baby foods, nipples, bottles, prepared formulas, shoes, walkers, pillows, cribs—all with new scientific twists—are ready for the infant.

The fellows whose job it is to convince Mama and Papa these gadgets are indispensable hauled them out on display today at the 15th annual meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics, now in session in Pittsburgh.

Doctors from all parts of the country got a look at them. Oddly, the ultimate buyer—the parent—was barred from the nearby half-mile of display.

The disposable nursing bottle perhaps was the most revolutionary item on show.

It is merely an envelope of filmy substance that feels like rubber but actually is similar to cellophane. The "bottles" come in rolls of 50.

The mother merely clips one off the roll—it's sealed at the other end—puts the formula in it, and paces a wide-mouth nipple on the other end. It requires less effort on the part of the infant than the conventional glass bottle, because it collapses as the formula is taken out. Then, when it is empty, it is merely tossed away.

AIR TRAINING AVAILABLE TO V-6 MEMBERS

Naval Reserve Air Station at Port Columbus has made available to all V-6 members including non-veterans in the age groups 17 to 18½ and 30 to 40 years of age a comprehensive training program in aviation.

The program will include academic studies in physics, mathematics, and aerodynamics plus a complete ground course and instruction in the latest link trainers. Drill periods will be held Saturdays and Sundays to enable the greatest number of students to take advantage of this schooling. The complete course will be given in 48 periods each of 2½ hours duration for which the student will be paid according to the rate he holds.

The rate of pay for AS will be $10 per month for 4 drills, or $120 for the complete course. Transportation will be provided between Columbus and the airport. Berthing and messing will be available at the airport at very reasonable prices.

The bureau is giving sympathetic consideration to requests for a change to aviation rates by all men who can qualify and who request a change.

Men who are in the first pay grade are allowed a uniform allowance of $150. Other pay grades are issued clothing on a custody basis.

SINO-REDS MAKE NEW GAINS ON CHIANG FORCES

Nationalists Admit Reverses
By Communist Forces
In Manchuria

PEIPING, Feb. 27—Nationalist strongholds guarding the approaches to Changchun, capital of rich Manchuria, toppled today before a Chinese Communist offensive that swept to within nine miles of the city's northern suburbs.

Government sources, stressing the power of the red offensive, admitted that columns of the famed Communist eighth route army have encircled Changchun on three sides.

A triangular nationalist front, with its apex on the Sungari river before Harbin and its base-line running through Changchun, appeared to be crumbling rapidly under the trip-hammer Communist onslaught.

The key city of Nungan, 36 miles northwest of Changchun, fell to a Communist column rolling up the right flank of the Nationalists' Manchurian front.

The government's Central news agency acknowledged that Teh-Hui, principal bastion of the Nationalist right wing, was completely surrounded by red troops. Teh-Hui is 54 miles northeast of Changchun.

South of embattled Manchuria, government forces in central Shantung province were reported in Chinese dispatches to be facing a serious new threat.

Counter-attacking Communist troops in that area were disclosed to have occupied the Tsinan airport, five miles outside of Tsinan, capital of Shantung.

Only yesterday Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek returned to Nanking after a flying visit to Tsinan. His plane took off from the same Tsinan airfield that was captured about 24 hours later by his mortal enemies, the Communists.

A Nationalist offensive in southern Shantung, however, was continuing to roll northward. A government column advancing up the Tientsin-Pukow railroad captured the important city of Tsohsien, 82 miles south of Tsinan.

OHIO CHURCH COUNCIL OPPOSES LIQUOR SYSTEM

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27—The Ohio Council of Churches went on record today as opposed to the monopoly liquor system in Ohio.

Dr. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the group, told some 50 Protestant ministers at a two-day legislative seminar: "It is time for the church to wake up and organize an effective campaign to put the liquor business back in the hands of the disreputable, so that youth will understand that to play with liquor or any of its associates is a dangerous business."

What's smart for '47? BUICK!

THAT grille's as fresh and fashion-worthy as a Paris label in a new bonnet.

That long, clean, sweeping-all-the-way-through fender line is as much a "must" with the style-wise as white tie with tails.

There's the sparkle of bright, fresh colors — the rich sheen of chaste chrome — the sleek, slick, able look of an express cruiser, shined and polished for Regatta Day.

But is this the only way in which Buick's smart? Not by a barrelful!

Look at the engine room in that bonnet — that means torrents of Fireball power to put the lift of a lifetime in every mile.

That hug-the-road look means steadiness always — and cushiony coil springs on all four wheels spell serene disregard of any road's rude jolts.

Look at the width amidships that gives you lolling room both front and back — and at push-button controls that not only raise and lower the top, but move door windows up and down and the front seat back and forth.

And look deeper. At engines so fine-made they keep their new-car liveness seemingly forever. At stout metals and sturdy underpinning, at husky, curl-around bumpers, controls light as a ladyfinger; at wheels that curb heel-over on turns, and brakes both easy and sure.

Fact is, in this trim Convertible or any of the eight other body types, Buick's the smartest buy as well as '47's smartest car. It's the place where dollar-sense meets with style-sense to produce America's most wanted automobile.

Such being so — why hesitate? A day lost now in placing an order can be a week lost later in taking delivery, so — get your order in now!

RUSSIAN CHEMICALS

REPORTS FROM Berlin say that Russia has given up the idea of a great chemical industry, with a surplus for export. Their more modest present aim is to furnish enough chemicals to keep Russian industry and agriculture going.

At the beginning of the occupation of Germany, the Russians decided to dismantle the great German chemical plants and reassemble them in Russia, complete with German research workers and technicians. But sixty to eighty per cent of the delicate equipment was unfit for use on arrival in Russia, while personnel problems developed among the German workers transplanted into a strange environment. This movement has now been halted, and some plants even moved back to Germany. There, they are meeting with difficulties due to lack of fuel and also to a break-up of the former interdependence among phases of the chemical industry.

Russia's grandiose plans for world dominance lack a solid, substantial background of achievement. She must first put her own house in order, which will take much more than the five years allotted to that task. In this process will the people themselves be able to enforce upon their leaders a program for peace rather than for conquest?

INDIA'S FUTURE

THERE HAS been much hue and cry in various corners of the world about British domination of India. Whatever Britain did or didn't do in that vast realm was wrong. But Prime Minister Attlee has startled everybody, including England, by his announcement that in June of '48 the British are pulling out of India. This gives even those most critical of British rule pause for very sober second thought.

India is anything but united. Unless the Moslems can be persuaded to withdraw their demand for a separate state and join with the Congress Party, largely Hindus, in a united India, the country's 400 million people are faced with civil war when England leaves. Worse than even this horror, from the world's point of view, is the question immediately uppermost: will some other nation move in to gain control of India? Will undefended India be a plum the U.S.S.R. will try to grab? And in such a situation, will the United States be forced to enter the picture to keep world balance and peace?

There is some hope that England's announcement will force the warring elements of India to harmony; but viewed against India's history, it is a pretty slim hope.

Assignment: America.... by Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—This is an open letter to Floyd B. (Skipper) Rigdon, the sawed-off, calf-ropping publisher of the Carlsbad, New Mexico, Daily Current-Argus.

A few years ago, as editor of same, I labored under the illusion that I was of considerable importance in getting out a right newsy-looking paper — an illusion, I might add, that the boys in the back room daily succeeded in shattering.

But that's all pried type under the stone now, so on with the letter:

Dear Skipper —

If you have been paying any attention to the way certain senators have been playing politics and killing time in these atomic energy commission hearings up on capitol hill lately, you probably will understand why I'm writing.

I was just sorta wondering if you're short-handed, nowadays — well, that is, if maybe you need a good man with a typewriter, or, uh, if you think you might have a job open out there one of these days.

We wouldn't have any trouble getting together on the salary, Skipper. Just fix me up with a little credit at the grocery and clothing stores (with prices like they are, I'd rather have that than cash, anyway) and get the missus a pass to the picture show now and then, and we'd get along.

Except for one thing.

You see, I wouldn't be available of nights anymore, Skip-on account of I'm not planning to live there in town. In fact, that's the whole point. Lately, I've been loafing around shooting the bull with some spelunkers here in Washington for the annual convention of the National Speleological Society, which gets its name from a Greek word spelao, meaning cave.

Thus, spelunking means having fun in caves, and you can tell your cowboy friends (Joe and Elmer, I mean) to stop that loud laughing, right now! It doesn't have a thing to do with what they're thinking. It merely means adventuring in the dark — oh, what's the use! There they go again.

Anyhow, these spelunkers who go crawling around exploring caves in their spare time listened to a speech here by Captain Rupert Draeger, a Navy medical officer who was in charge of research during the Bikini atom bomb testing business.

When the captain first commented that all a man needs when an atom bomb explodes is six feet of earth, there was only one slight snort of sepulchral laughter — and it came from a long-faced spelunker in the last row who later turned out to be a mortician in his topside moments.

In short, it was too funeral to be funny. As a gag, it fell flatter than a tenderfoot trying to top a tough brone.

But the captain claimed he wasn't smart-cracking — that he was quite serious. He said earth just naturally absorbs gamma rays and all that deadly radioactivity from an atomic explosion, and that furthermore six feet of it is plenty of protection.

So the spelunkers promptly started forming a full-fledged scientific society for the subterranean salvation of the nation — and I started thinking about that beautiful big room down in the Carlsbad caverns, with all those thousands of feet of lovely absorbent earth overhead!

So that's the story, Skipper. I want to live in the caverns, cultivate my little guano victory garden and commute those 30 miles into town for the job.

Once, I wasn't so skeptical about our atomic situation. But that was before certain senators started procrastinating by playing political peek-a-boo with atomic commission appointments.

At the rate they're going now, when the first atomic bomb drops on Washington some of those senators are going to get fissioned right in the act of filibustering!

Me, I want to be spelunking.

Sincerely,

Ken Dixon

P. S. to the Current-Argus printers: Don't get reckless with speleological, sepulchral and spelunker — just because they look like your ordinary typographical errors. Ya-a-a-hh!

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—Here is an inside unofficial report on Germany, Japan and the American occupations (paraphrased conversationally) from an Army man who has studied both sectors. Keep this one for your scrapbooks, because the top men are said to be growing alive to the deplorable situation it presents concerning the occupation of Germany. In line with it, General Marshall may change policy in the coming Moscow talks for a German treaty and the Army certainly will be induced to make some corrections at least, if it does not overturn its German setup. Here it is:

The occupation of Japan is nearly perfect. This has been accomplished because the Japanese are behind General MacArthur, not only 100 percent, but (in true Nipponese fashion) about 101 percent. Industries have been restored and are functioning as well as anyone expected. There are some defects but Japan is considerably supporting herself.

Far more important, the American soldier in Japan is a model. The officers have no trouble on looting, black markets, or even much on morality. Following the guidance set forth by MacArthur, they are cooperating with the people, and the people with them.

In Germany the occupation is disgraceful. It is a disgrace to American arms and administration. About 45 percent of the occupation army, numbering nearly 200,000, are kids of less than 21 years of age. Another 30 to 35 percent are repeaters, lads who came back to the states, could not get or did not want a job, knew of the conditions of black marketing and looting to be found in central Europe, and went back to get into them.

But these kids and men are not to be held responsible for the corruption of the army of occupation. The men in charge should have set down an efficient program from the beginning as MacArthur did. Their trouble was that after the war they did not know what to do. They had no occupation formula such as MacArthur developed. So they turned for guidance to propaganda from home, and the most vociferous of the public here demanded swift denazification of any and all Germans, retributive punishment and other steps which have kept Germany from supporting herself. Denazification is all right, as a theory, I feel that way myself. But nearly everyone who knew how to run factories and business operations was naturally connected with the Nazi party one way or another, so what we have done is to debusinessize Germany in the process. It would have been far better if we had required some Nazis who knew how to do things, to work for us.

However you may look at this angle, our basic defect is that we did not improvise a workable plan for Germany because our commanders had not studied and did not know the German people. (MacArthur's economic and political aides had really studied Japan during the war.)

The Russian occupation is worse yet. The reds came in and took everything they could lay their hands on. They even took silk wall paper off the walls. In the Berlin subway they made off with so much of

DIET AND HEALTH

Inducing a Patient to Eat

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FOR years many efforts have been made to find a cure for people who drink too much. Many methods have been employed. Perseverance, mental treatment, exercise, drugs to produce vomiting and others to quiet nerves, have all been used but none has proved universally successful.

In spite of everything, some people retain their craving for alcohol and would anytime, as the saying goes, "rather drink than eat."

A New Treatment

Now we have a promising new treatment which seems to owe its effectiveness to the fact that it makes the alcoholic feel that he would rather eat than drink. Nearly half of the patients so treated have been able to give up alcohol at once, without any tapering off.

The new treatment consists of injections of insulin. Insulin is a substance formed in the pancreas. It speeds up the body's consumption of sugar in the blood stream. For this reason it has been for years now a life-saver for diabetics, who do not form enough insulin in their own bodies in the normal way.

Makes Patient Hungry

When this insulin is given to a heavy drinker, he suddenly discovers about half-an-hour after the injection, that he is tremendously hungry, with a real craving for good solid food. The craving is so strong that until it is satisfied, it blocks out the craving for alcohol. Thus, he is soon able to break his long established habit of substituting alcohol for food.

This in itself is very important, according to Dr. Leopold Wexberg, of Washington, D. C., though it is not the whole story. For though the craving for drink is temporarily overcome by the insulin, it is a harder problem to keep the patient cured.

Diet is Important

According to Drs. Etem G. Vassaf and Volta R. Hall of Massachusetts, who treated 43 alcoholic patients with insulin, it is important that the diet contain plenty of sugar and fruit juices. Patients were also given Vitamin B tablets.

It seems generally agreed that the drinker drinks because of a desire to escape from some sort of pressure, whether it be worry over home problems, business or some other form of anxiety.

Once the patient becomes aware of the cause of his anxiety and worry he is better able to root it out and get rid of it. This is not always easy and often requires a year or more of study by a psychiatrist. However, with the insulin treatment and temporary relief from the craving the patient is often able to shift his attention from the past to a more promising future. In any event it would appear that the insulin and vitamin treatment of alcoholism is worthy of further trial.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

JANET CONTINUED, "I would not give up. You can't realize the torture of not knowing whether someone you love is dead or alive. I wrote Claribel, and she had Madison investigate, but he sent word that it was impossible for Father to be alive without the vaqueros hearing about it. Finally, I learned that the Rubber Division wanted to open the New Dixie plantations, and I went back to Washington to see if I could get them to send me down. When they found out I had lived here, it was easy to persuade them I might be able to help you."

"Tell me one thing," Cliff interrupted. "Was it about your father you wanted to talk with Vicente the night he captured us?"

"Yes. The first day I saw Vicente at Wade Carroll's was sure he knew something. I still think he does. But he would only say he had known Father long ago."

"Have you spoken of this to Madison since you came back?" Janet shook her head. "Father and Madison never liked each other. Father hated the way Madison's vaqueros treated the people on the river."

Watching her, with her head thrown back beneath the light, and earnest eyes on his, Cliff realized that at last she had dropped her guard against him. For the first time there could be full trust between them, but even now—perhaps now more than ever—he was powerless to help her, and sudden sympathy swept over him. More than anything in the world he wanted to say some word that might hold out hope to her, but he knew it was not hope she wanted—it was certainty—and to tell her the truth at this time might mean disaster.

Mutely he touched her hand, and in that simple, unarticulate gesture she sensed the offer of his friendship, for tears were in her eyes. She gave a tremulous laugh. "You don't know how much it means not to sail under false colors any more. From now on, whatever comes, you'll know why I'm here, and if it has to be war between you and Madison, you'll know where I stand."

"I hope you won't ever regret it." He sat down behind the desk. "Just now things look pretty dark, and it's no use denying that we may be beaten."

Standing beside his chair, she laid her hand on his shoulder. "You won't ever be beaten—you couldn't be beaten." The steady voice held a world of quiet trust and assurance. "I remember the night they took us captive, how you carried me for miles to the river. And I've listened to the tales Casey and the rest of them tell about you. Men like you can be killed, Cliff—they can't be beaten."

The low voice stopped, but he did not answer. Madison, Vicente, even the prospect of defeat had lost all importance, all reality. Nothing was important now except to know she believed in him, and was standing very close to him. Raising his head, he brushed her arm with his cheek, and almost without breathing felt the warm, living softness of her. He did not stir. Stronger than any will of his own, far stronger than any strength to resist or deny, the need for her surged over him like an engulfing wave. His cheek still lay against her arm, and turning, he touched it with his lips. Her body trembled, he heard the faint intake of her breath, and in that second he was on his feet, his arms about her.

"Janet!"

Within the hush of the little office he held her through a timeless fragment of eternity whose only measure lay in the quickened beating of a heart that matched the racing rhythm of his own. Her arms, moving upward over his khaki shirt, encircled him; the palms of her hands pressed him close in a caress that, even while it yielded, had all the fierce glad glory of possession.

"Janet!" The mass of copper hair lifted as she drew back her head. Her eyes, luminous beneath the lamp, were on his eyes; her lips, parted, rose nearer, almost touched—then suddenly her eyes changed, and with a cry she gasped, "Cliff! The window—someone's outside!"

He jerked open the door, but the night lay black and empty, and at a run he rounded the building, then stood listening. "Were you sure?" he called.

"I saw a face pressed against the pane, and then it was gone. I remember the eyes staring—"

Janet stopped. The long-drawn howl of a jaguar came to them from the dark woods.

"It's Plato," Cliff said, and the same thought flashed across the minds of both—had it been Lilli at the window?

But the spell of that moment was shattered. The shock of intrusion had thrust itself like a barrier between them, and Janet looked up at him with a tired smile.

"I'm dead, Cliff. Mind if I run along to bed? Too much has happened today."

"I know." He walked with her down the path to the door of her shack, then with both hands he raised her face and kissed her lips. "Remember this," he whispered. "We can't lose now—you and I."

Up in Claribel's office Madison sat white-faced and brooding. For nearly an hour after Janet left him he did not move, his slate-gray eyes fixed on the window. Then as if reaching a decision, he left the house and rode to the quarters of his vaqueros. The smoke-filled, baggage-like room was crowded with herdsmen, and Madison counted them, then beckoned to Sloan.

The burly leader swaggered over. "What goes, Boss? You look kinda tough."

Madison cut him off. "Are these

all the vaqueros you have here?"

"Sure. Some are at the river camp, but most of 'em are in the upper ranges. What do you want done that us boys can't handle?"

"I want you to crack down on Cliff Bogard."

Sloan's eyes widened. "You mean—?"

"I mean smash his camp and drive him out."

"What's the sudden idea, Boss? I thought you was waitin' for the Blacklanders to tangle with him first."

"I'm done waiting."

"Ain't it kinda risky? Now if we waited until—"

"To heck with all that. I'm fed up, understand, fed up! Either he goes or I go, and this is as good a time as we'll ever have."

Sloan looked thoughtful. "If that's the job, I guess we'll need all the vaqueros we can round up."

"We'll need every man."

Sloan flicked his cigarette across the floor. "Okay. We'll start tomorrow."

Madison spat out an oath. "We'll start right now. It's going to take three or four days to bring them in from the upper ranges, even if we work fast, and I'm going with you. By midnight we can be at the river camp. By dawn we'll be in the upper range."

Sloan looked into Madison's face and reached for his spurs. "Whatever you say, Boss."

Skirting the village, the two men rode down the river trail, and an hour later they were passing Wade's clearing, where a light in the window of the main shack caught Madison's attention.

He reined in his horse. "I thought Wade and Lilli were living at the rubber camp."

"They were."

A shadow passed across the window, and Madison recognized Lilli. He raised his hand for silence, then leaned toward Sloan.

"I'd say she's alone. You stay out here and keep watch. I want a word or two with that lady."

Dismounting, Madison walked toward the shack. Twice he stopped to listen, then certain that no one else was within, threw open the door. At the sound Lilli turned, and beneath the lamplight he saw she had been weeping.

Terrified, the girl drew back. "What do you want?" Her voice was trembling.

He seated himself comfortably just inside the door. "I thought you were staying at the rubber camp."

So low he scarcely heard, she said, "I've left."

He looked at her with new interest. Yes, her cheeks were wet with tears. Had something really gone wrong at the camp, or was she lying? Was she here to bring some message from Bogard to Vicente? Again the disquieting suspicion assailed him that Bogard and Vicente might have reached a secret agreement.

Miss Harriet Heffner Bride Of Joe Hedges

Marriage Is Read
In Hedges Chapel
February 24

LISTEN TO THE BIDDING

It pays to listen closely to the bidding. And that means the bidding of your opponents as well as your partners. You are likely to get information from them which is even more valuable to you than merely that which aids you to play the cards with good effect against them. Maybe the disclosure of their own suit lengths will enable you to read that your partner holds enough cards in your own long suit to support it as a trump for a profitable sacrifice.

Pass	3 ♣	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♠	5 ♦	Pass
Pass	4 ♠	5 ♦	Pass

You could hardly call that entire auction fine bidding. Most first rate players would open North's hand with 1-Diamond instead of 1-Spade, and the ensuing activity would have varied tremendously. Also, more players would have favored a double by East than 1-No Trump. Then again, after East's 1-No Trump, most players in the West would have bid either 3-Hearts or 4-Hearts on their first turn, and some would have bid 4-Hearts instead of three after East's 3-Clubs.

There was one really good bid, however, in the entire sequence. It was South's 5-Diamonds. The repeated calls by East and West had told him that they held so many cards in other suits, they could not have many diamonds. Consequently North had a fair number of them. As soon as the 4-Hearts bid showed a game was at stake, South then decided to sacrifice at 5-Diamonds. It proved profitable, too, as the only tricks lost were one in trumps, two in spades and one in hearts.

East and West could have made 5-Hearts if they had gone ahead and bid it, but East so resented the insult to his own strong bidding, when South cut in at the height of five, that he just couldn't help doubling.

WOR, kids will spend 75 per cent of their time learning reading, writing and atomic fission at home.

It would be necessary only to attend school an hour or so a day for "personal guidance, examination and administrative detail."

Reaction from the crib set—already staggering under the prospects of robot planes and jet-propelled dish washers—was varied.

A blue-eyed blonde, in a buggy side interview, dropped her formula and enthusiastically commented, "coo." Registering skepticism over such grandiose promises, the master of a play pen removed his horn rimmed glasses, stuck his thumb in his mouth thoughtfully and wrote Einstein's theory of relativity 50 times.

As Streibert foresees the future of elementary education, television will bring "the finest teachers in the nation" into the child's home. He added, "Furthermore, reading lists, study assignments and other illustrative material — even entire texts — will be transmitted at the same time over the facsimile receiver."

The possibilities are immeasurable — the honorable order of spital throwers would become a relic of the pre-electronic age.

Facsimile, not so widely publicized as television, is broadcast of the written word. Nor is it a vague promise of the future.

In Louisville, for instance, a handful of families for several years have been getting their daily newspaper from a machine in the living room. Thus far, it has been done in various communities throughout the country on an experimental level.

The householder does no more than switch the machine on, cut the pages apart as they roll out of the cabinet and put in a fresh roll of special paper every now and then. Transmission is not yet perfect. Static may blur the copy or make it a black smudge, but technicians are licking the problem gradually.

Facsimile can come in combination with old fashioned spoken broadcast. Simultaneous transmission will mean concerts with program notes, news reports illustrated with maps, baseball games with box scores, and cooking hints with recipes.

There will come a time, facsimile people promise, when you may be able to dial in your newspaper the way you dial in your nightly programs. If you feel like a New York paper in the morning set the dial. Change it in the evening to get a facsimile of the local newspaper.

One can now hear, see and read a radio. Next, taste?

A result of a "crew-clipping" his barber gave him recently, Jackie Kelk, squeaky-voiced "Homer" of the "Aldrich Family," now looks as well as sounds the part. His new hair-do was ordered by producers of the forthcoming Broadway show, "Tenting Tonight," in which Kelk has a major role. The play will be tried out in Philadelphia and Boston before heading for New York and Broadway.

So terrific has been listener response to Percy Faith's recently introduced original composition, "Snow Goose" that Faith has decided to program it again on his "Contented Hour" program soon. Jay "Mr. District Attorney" Jostyn has transcribed a series of Lenten appeals for the Church World Service, which will be distributed to local stations throughout the U.

Circleville's Bingo Games Facing Legal Death

Bingo games in Circleville would be halted in the event the Ohio legislature passes a bill which is now in the hands of the Ohio senate's judiciary committee.

That committee during the past few days has been holding hearings at Columbus on the proposed law which would outlaw bingo games sponsored by religious and fraternal organizations.

Weekly bingo games are conducted in Circleville by two lodges. These games are open to the general public.

The bingo-banning bill was introduced by Senator George G. Shurtz, (Rep.) of Coshocton. At one of the committee hearings, held Tuesday night, Sen. Shurtz appealed to an overflow crowd which turned out for the hearing to join him in his attempt to obtain enactment of the bill into law.

"Bingo games are breaking up homes and are contributing to the delinquency of juveniles", Sen. Shurtz declared. His chief supporters in the campaign to legalize bingo games in Ohio include the Rev. Ralph G. Sculley and the Rev. William H. Phillips, both of the Cleveland Federation of Churches; the Rev. Emerson D. Bragg, Hamilton; and the Rev. Boyd C. Rife, of the Columbus Ministerial Association.

They have argued before the senate's judiciary committee at the hearings that gambling is unlawful in the state and that bingo is gambling and that it should therefore be prohibited on the basis of illegality.

Many proponents of bingo games who are opposing the passage of the bill are expected to appear before the judiciary committee before the hearings are concluded.

In many communities throughout the state bingo games, sponsored by fraternal organizations, churches, and war veterans' organizations, have been heavily attended during the last few years.

There are at this time, however, no veteran-sponsored or church-sponsored bingo games in Circleville. The two weekly games now in operation, both sponsored by fraternal groups, have been well-attended. In both games the winners receive cash awards.

During the 40th annual four-day Pumpkin Show in Circleville last Oct. 16-19, a cash-award bingo game and a merchandise-award bingo game were operated.
